

CPE Developer Days

April 30, 2008

The MITRE Corporation

You are invited to attend CPE Developer Days. This one day conference will be technical in nature and focus on ways to improve CPE as we try to increase its adoption in the community. There have been a number of areas identified in the current version of CPE that need improvement. By bringing together the lead proponents within the CPE Community, we hope to foster a rich and technical environment that will help us better understand the current version as well as provide ideas for future versions.
